

Harbor Vocation Nurses Rank High in State Exams

Harbor College vocational nursing graduates once more ranked high in recent state examinations, it was announced today by Roberta Lindberg, director of the Nursing Division at Harbor College.

Results from the State Board of Vocational Nurse Examinations place the group of 15 Harbor graduates fourth out of 47 schools participating. Last year they were third out of 43 schools.

All of the graduates have found good positions, according to Miss Lindberg who indicated that there is still a great need for vocational nurses.

Selection of students for nursing program is now under way. The class will be limited to 30 students. All students must take the College entrance test, pass a physical examination and have a personal interview with a member of the nursing faculty. "No previous courses are required, a high school diploma is not necessary, and age, sex and marital status are not factors," said Miss Lindberg.

The nursing students supplement their classroom studies with work and instruction at Harbor Hospital, Kaiser Hospital and San Pedro Community Hospital. A course for registered nursing students is now in its first semester of operation at the college.

The successful applicants who represent the complete graduating class of last June are: From Wilmington, Lolita Sampang, Mary Smith, Muriel Watkins; from San Pedro, Francis Fisher, Patricia Golding, Mory H. Harley, Doris Holt; from Redondo Beach, Jean Lum, Genevieve Vickers; from Harbor
